2005 General Election – Questions and Answers

1. Who can vote in the election?

Anyone who is enrolled by 16 September, the day before Election Day can vote in the election. Voters who enrol by 17 August will receive an EasyVote information pack about a week before the election. The pack will include voting information along with an EasyVote card. Voters are encouraged to take their EasyVote card with them on Election Day as it will make voting easier.

Enrolment forms are available by calling 0800 36 76 56, freetexting name and address to 3676, from www.elections.org.nz or at PostShops. People can also enrol online, but will be required to sign the enrolment form.

2. How can people find out what electorate they are in?

People can check their enrolment details at www.elections.org.nz which will tell them what electorate they are enrolled in. Maps of all electorates are available on the website. People can also check the electoral rolls which are at all PostShops and public libraries.

3. Who can be a candidate?

Candidates must be enrolled as a voter and be a New Zealand citizen. Candidates do not need to be enrolled in the electorate they are seeking election for.

4. How does the nomination process work?

There are two ways that electorate candidates are nominated:

- Bulk nominations – registered political parties can nominate all the candidates representing the party at one time by lodging a bulk nomination schedule with the Chief Electoral Officer. (This system is used by most registered parties).
- Individual nominations – individual nominations can be made by two voters in the electorate lodging an individual nomination paper with the electorate Returning Officer.

List candidates are nominated by registered political parties supplying a party list to the Chief Electoral Office.

5. When is the deadline for nominations?

Electorate candidates must be nominated by:

- noon on Monday 22 August – for bulk nominations to the Chief Electoral Office
- noon on Tuesday 23 August – for individual nominations to the Returning Officer for the electorate.

Party lists must be supplied by:

- noon on Tuesday 23 August to the Chief Electoral Office.

6. When will the candidates be announced?

Candidates for the general election will be announced on Wednesday 24 August.

7. What happens if people are overseas at the time?

People who are overseas during the election can still vote. Voters going overseas can cast an advance vote before they go in the period starting 31 August 2005.

Voters who will be overseas during the voting period can download voting papers from the elections website www.elections.org.nz or pick up voting papers from overseas posts. A list of participating overseas posts is available at the website or by calling 0800 36 76 56.

8. Can overseas voters vote electronically?

No, overseas voters cannot vote electronically or return their votes by email. But they can return their voting papers by fax to +64 4 494 2300.

9. What about people who will be away from home at the time of the election?

Voters who will be away in the period starting 31 August 2005 or who can't get to a polling place on Election Day can vote in advance from 31 August. Information on advance voting facilities will be available from 19 August by calling 0800 35 76 56 or visiting www.elections.org.nz. This information will also be in the EasyVote information pack that will be sent to enrolled voters in the week before Election Day.

10. Where can people go to get information about polling places?

A list of polling places will be available from the elections website www.elections.org.nz, by calling 0800 36 76 56, or in the EasyVote information pack sent to all voters who are enrolled.

11. What happens if people don't receive an EasyVote card? Can they still vote?

People who don't receive an EasyVote card can still vote as long as they are enrolled by 16 September 2005. People who enrol after 17 August should receive a letter from the Chief Electoral Officer instead of an EasyVote card that they can take with them when they go to vote.

12. How many polling places will there be?

There will be approximately 2,700 polling places for the election.

13. When will the election results be announced?

Preliminary results released progressively from 7pm on www.electionresults.govt.nz.

Targets for release:

- by 8.30pm all advance vote results
- by 10.00pm results from 50% of polling places
- by 11.30pm results from 100% of polling places.

These are targets, not guarantees.

The official results are expected to be declared by 1 October 2005.

14. Where can we get the results from?

Election results will be available progressively and in real time from 7pm on 17 September at www.electionresults.govt.nz.
